May You Live In Interesting Times

Paolo Baratta
Presidente della Biennale di Venezia

Il titolo di questa Mostra può essere letto come una sorta di maledizione, nella quale l'espressione "interesting times" evoca l'idea di tempi sfi danti e persino minacciosi. Ma può essere anche un invito a vedere e considerare sempre il corso degli eventi umani nella loro complessità, un invito pertanto che ci appare particolarmente importante in tempi nei quali troppo spesso prevale un eccesso di semplifi cazione, generato da conformismo o da paura. E io credo che una mostra d'arte valga la pena di esistere, in primo luogo, se intende condurci davanti all'arte e agli artisti come una decisiva sfi da a tutte le inclinazioni alla sovrasemplifi cazione.

In tempi di grandi cambiamenti è parso a tutti necessario essere attenti all'evoluzione del mondo e del mondo dell'arte. Cerchiamo infatti di essere sensibili allo spirito del tempo ma fermi su alcuni punti. Innanzitutto siamo una Mostra Internazionale complessa nella quale numerose mostre promosse dei paesi partecipanti dialogano in rapporto dialettico le une con le altre, e tutte insieme stanno in rapporto dialogico con la Mostra Internazionale da noi organizzata con il nostro curatore, Mostra che a sua volta deve essere 'aperta' e senza confi ni di sorta.

La nostra missione è semplice anche se non facile: off rire agli artisti durante i sei mesi di mostra un luogo di dialogo il più libero possibile e ai visitatori un intenso incontro con l'arte. I visitatori, infatti, sono diventati il nostro principale partner e più della metà ha meno di ventisei anni. A loro vogliamo off rire un'aperta palestra dove si possano sentire ingaggiati in incontri con le opere e gli artisti, nello scoprire direttamente 'l'altro da sé' che l'opera d'arte off re.

Il processo di espansione del nostro sguardo e delle nostre menti è più che mai facilitato se si svolge in un ambiente dove si respirano autonomia e fi ducia, e creare fi ducia è il nostro obiettivo di lungo periodo.

58. Esposizione Internazionale di Arte

Ralph Rugoff Curatore della 58. Esposizione Internazionale d'Arte

May You Live In Interesting Times si concentra su artisti che sfidano le consuetudini di ragionamento e ampliano l'interpretazione che diamo di oggetti e immagini, scenari e situazioni. Il loro lavoro nasce da una pratica che prevede l'adozione di molteplici prospettive: tengono a mente concetti in apparenza incompatibili e si destreggiano con diverse modalità per attribuire un significato al mondo. Gli artisti che ragionano in questo modo, propongono alternative al significato dei cosiddetti 'fatti', suggerendo altri collegamenti tra essi.

La loro produzione ci invita a prendere in considerazione punti di vista poco familiari e a capire come l'ordine si sia trasformato nella presenza simultanea di ordini diversi. Il loro lavoro comprende anche una visione generale della funzione sociale dell'arte che coniughi appagamento e pensiero critico.

Tra le loro notevoli qualità, i partecipanti a questa Mostra dimostrano un'audacia profonda: ciascuno di essi produce corpus di opere che articolano modalità distinte di pensiero e abbracciano una vasta gamma di tematiche. Per sottolineare questo approccio multidimensionale alla creazione artistica, la 58. Esposizione Internazionale d'Arte è divisa in due mostre distinte: Proposta A all'Arsenale e Proposta B al Padiglione Centrale ai Giardini. Tutti gli artisti partecipano a entrambe le mostre, ma espongono lavori molti diversi in ciascuna sede. In un'epoca in cui la comunicazione pubblica è codificata in modo sempre più ristretto, la Mostra mira a celebrare la capacità dell'arte di stimolare domande e confronti complessi.

May You Live In Interesting Times, infine, esplora il modo in cui l'opera d'arte solleva domande sui modi in cui delineiamo confini e frontiere culturali. Presenta lavori che illuminano in vario modo il concetto, articolato da Leonardo da Vinci e Vladimir Ilic Lenin, che ogni cosa è connessa.

ARTIST'S STATEMENT
The work is a response to the natural world, exploring the textures and colors of organic forms. It is a study of light and shadow, and the way in which these elements interact with the physical world. The work is a study of the human condition, and the way in which we interact with the world around us. It is a study of the human condition, and the way in which we interact with the world around us.

replacing some hexagons with pentagons pulls the surface in on itself causing it to make a sphere.

The chalkboard contains several diagrams:

- Top left: A coordinate system with three lines originating from a point. One is a straight line, one is a curve that diverges from the straight line, and one is a curve that stays parallel to the straight line. Labels include 'ultraparallel' and 'parallel lines'.
- Top center: Three horizontal lines. The top two are parallel and labeled 'parallel lines'. The bottom one is a curve that diverges from the top two, labeled 'ultraparallel'.
- Top right: A circle with two dashed lines representing 'straight' lines on a sphere that intersect at two points. Label: 'on the "straight" of a sphere "straight" lines intersect'.
- Center: A soccer ball model of a sphere, labeled 'Soccer Ball model of sphere'. Below it is a Buckyball C₆₀ molecule, labeled 'Buckyball C₆₀ molecule Geodesic sphere'. A single pentagon is drawn below the Buckyball, labeled '5'.
- Bottom right: A circular disc representing the Poincaré disc model, labeled 'Poincaré disc model'.
- Bottom center: A diagram of a sphere with a great circle, labeled '② "great circle" = straight lines'.
- Bottom left: A diagram of a sphere with a line on its surface, labeled '① what is a line on a sphere'.
